JANUARY 1960

No. 10

THE NEW YEAR 1960 IS ON

PUBLIC SUPPORT: During this year we must make it a point to concentrate more and more on getting the parents of Scouts and Guides and the public to take a greater, and active interest in our movement and thus help the movement to progress. This can be achieved in a practical way, by getting every Scout and Guide group in our State to form a GROUP COMMITTEE as required under RULE 224 of the A.P.R.O. which reads as follows:—

“ It is necessary, in all cases, and more so, where outside subscriptions or other funds, as defined in Rule 230 are received, that a small Group Committee composed of parents of the Scouts, Guides or representatives of the old Scouts/Guides branch and others interested in the Group, should be formed to be responsible for Group property, and to assist the G.L. (S)/G.L. (G) with finance propaganda and obtain accommodation, camping grounds, and employment for members of the Group.”

We have 1,500 Scout and Guide groups in our State and if every Group forms a Group Committee — of at least seven members— we would have brought in form an Old under Rule 235 of the A.P.R.O. Surely there must 10,500 additional members to help us in our great work.

WE WISH YOU A HAPPY AND A PROSPEROUS
NEW YEAR
WITH GOOD SCOUTING
GUIDING AND PURPOSEFUL
CAMPING

There is yet another step that should be taken, i.e. every Scout and Guide group should form an Old SCOUT or GUIDE branch as required under Rule 235 of the A.P.R.O. Surely there must be a ~~large~~ number of Old Scouts and Guides who must have been once Scouts or Guides in the existing groups and it is easy to find at least 10 of them to come in and this will mean for 1500 groups—15,000 members and this is not a small figure.

OUR TARGET: The following is a suggested TARGET for us all to achieve during this year at the District and Group levels.

1. District level.

(a) Membership—to have at least 50 subscribing members.

(b) Strength—to have at least 6 new SCOUT/GUIDE groups started and registered.

(c) Bharat Scouts/Guides—to have Six Bharat Scouts (Rule 465 of the A.P.R.O.) and Two Bharat Guides (Rule 559 of the A.P.R.O.) in the district.

(d) Scouters/Guiders—to train at least 30 Scouters and 30 Guiders (new hands) to take up work.

2. Group level.

(a) Second Class Scouts/Guides—to have at least 4 Second Class Scouts in each Patrol of the Troop/Company.

(b) First Class Scouts/Guides—to have at least One in each Troop/Company.

(c) Proficiency Badges—to work and win at least 6 Proficiency Scout/Guide badges.

(d) Scout/Guide Camping—Every Scout/Guide should have camped at least for three nights either with his/her Patrol or his/her Troop/Company.

(e) Court of Honour—every Troop/Company should hold at least 6 meetings during the year.

(f) Group Committee—should have met at least three times during the year.

Let us go forward : Here is a Zulu War Song :—

' If we go forward we win,
If we stand still we go back,
Let us go Forward and WIN.

There are bound to be difficulties, and difficulties are there for us to overcome.

So-Scouters, Guiders and Commissioners ! THINK, PLAN AND WORK—YOU ARE SURE TO SUCCEED.

SRI K. S. SESHADRY, ASSISTANT STATE COMMISSIONER (SCOUTS) FELICITATED

A Meeting of all the Scouters, Guiders and Members of the Bharat Scouts and Guides, Local Association, Kumbakonam, was held on 13-12-1959 at the Town High School, to felicitate Sri K. S. Seshadry, Assistant State Commissioner on the award of the 'Silver Star', by the National Headquarters of the Bharat Scouts and Guides, India. Sri R. Krishnamurthy Iyer, B.A., B.L., Advocate, Kumbakonam presided. Many members of the Public, Scouters and Guiders paid glowing tributes to Sri K. S. Seshadry for his manifold and meritorious services to the Movement. On behalf of the Local Association a Felicitatory Address was presented to Sri K. S. Seshadry.

WE WANT LEADERS

BY

S. KETHARAMAN

(District Commissioner, Northern Railway Bharat Scouts & Guides)

Scouting has just passed its 50th anniversary. A question which often assails the minds of those associated with it is why after all these years this great movement with its lofty ideals, its capacity to fire the imagination of youth and its practical programme of work has still not made all the headway that it should and why its cause is not gaining rapidly enough. It seems to me that one of the main reasons is that Scouting is not a mere hobby or a spare time activity but is a way of life which calls for such sustained devotion and whole-hearted application that it is given but to few to catch its right spirit and make its benefits available in adequate measure.

If I have learnt one thing about the Movement after close association with it for several years, it is that its demands on its votaries are pretty exacting and it is not a form of life which is easy to practise.

As a Scoutmaster, many were the sleepless nights I spent in trying to work out just another programme which would have something new to offer for the boys. I learnt early that routine is the worst form of depression which can creep into a Scouting programme and the sheer dread of it was enough to keep me on edge. The enthusiastic response to a well-planned programme only made my joy more difficult due to the anxiety to sustain it. Still I am left, in retrospect, with the feeling that there was very much more to be done and the field for real Scouting is so wide that what was achieved in my very small sphere was not anything much to be proud of.

The trouble is that most of us just nibble at Scouting. We are apt to be reminded of the responsibilities it throws on us only when we put on the uniform or gather on occasions. The cares of life seem to weigh so heavily on us that we have thoughts for little else.

True, Scouting is often described as a Game. But it is no ordinary type of "game". It is a game whose whole object in B. P.'s words is "to seize the boy's character in its red-hot stage of enthusiasm, and to weld it into the right shape and to encourage and develop its individuality, so that the boy may educate himself to become a good man and a valuable citizen in the immediate future". It seeks to build up men of character, of chivalry and determination, who will be imbued with a spirit of service and a sense of subordination of purely personal interests for the common good.

The gap between practice and precept is very huge in the field of Scouting. It is such a complete movement, embracing such a wide variety of skills, qualities, principles and practices that it becomes (Sri S. Ketharaman. has been several years in one of our best open Groups in the Madras City, known as 'Shivajis' which is still working a difficult adventure. In the face of such complexities, what chance have we for success unless the movement is taken in right earnest.

We want leaders. We need to have the spirit of service and dedication which will bring forth people, who will be able to instil Scouting as it is intended to be. Once the seed is sown of the real spirit of Scouting, then it is bound to sprout forth luxuriantly.

NOTES BY THE WAY

Forty years and more have gone by since the first seeds of Scouting were sown in our country.

In less than half the time in Great Britain, "the tiny acorn" of Brownsea Island, much to the delight of B.P., grew into "a mighty oak".

Forty years that have gone by should have given us a mighty Banyan Tree, as big as the one at Adyar, a stalwart with hefty branches and rich foliage, strong in its urge to spread out on the strength and support of secondary stems born out of aerial roots.

But we have none such. Nor anything which is sound to the core.

Obviously we have been getting about it all in the wrong way. We have been influenced by wrong values. We have been whittling down our ideals, to suit our tastes!

B.P. the plain blunt man that he was thought of the BOY. He had no other thought. That gave Scouting to the world. That made Boy World richer and brighter.

And it helped boys to "live" as they had always loved to live but never could.

* * *

And the adults who followed B.P. into the movement—in his country, that is to say—loved Scouting for its own sake, not for any kudos it might bring them. They loved boys, and liked to live for them. In such a soil the tiny acorn could grow soon into a mighty Oak. And it did! •

* * *

And there the mighty oak will progressively grow mightier and mightier. People there who put their hands into Scouting took with them no axe of their own to grind.
They were simple folk, simple enough to love boys, and eager enough to live for them.

* * *

The BOY was what Scouting came out to serve. The Scoutmaster was the tool of its choice, its basic tool, the tool of first importance. To keep that tool as keen as a razor's edge, that was Scouting's primary duty. That was its main task. Associations were brought into existence solely with that end in view. The higher ranks were conceived and brought into vogue so that they may serve the Scouters who serve the boys. The BOY was supreme. All else was subordinate.

* * *

To help the Scoutmaster to come to his own, to keep him in good spirit, to keep him well-informed, to give him all the facilities and encouragement that he stood in need of—these were the tasks of all other adults who came into the movement as Commissioners of all ranks, Committeemen, Presidents or Chairmen. And each one of them knew their place, and was careful and sensible enough to keep it!

* * *

Each one of them knew that they had to keep the BOY in the forefront, and each one knew that he had to help the Scouters to be in good trim and help them to "play the game of Scouting" as it ought to be played, and get out of it for the boys and for themselves all the relish that could be got out of it—as a Game!

Keen Scouts playing the game as B.P. liked it to be played—these were the aerial roots that Scouting felt the urge to put out. For it knew very well they were its future strength and support on which to build further expansion, and further spreading out.

* * *

But this urge of Scouting was stifled. The Boy was forgotten. The Scouter was brushed aside. They both were allowed to droop. Other figures stole the lime-light.

* * *

And with such figures trying to steal the show, figures of the census returns gained importance. People took pride in the thousands and ten thousands. What is the number this year? How many shall we aim at for the next? were questions which worried them. What kind of activities do the boys have? or do they have any activities at all? did not worry them in the least. Were the troops alive or somnolent? was nobody's concern. If there was a census return from them that was all that was needed!

* * *

In direct proportion to their neglect of the boy, and in direct proportion to their forgetting him, they became Rules conscious. What was the POR became PRO, and later on it became APRO. Rules went up by leaps and bounds. They are so many and so confusing and they give such head-ache that it is wise to keep handy some of that much advertised stuff, ASPRO!

* * *

Most of the Rules concern not the Boy nor the Scoutmaster but those "other adults". They provide for important positions for them. They provide for elections as a device to make things interesting for them! The Boy and Girl are not only forgotten, but they are effectively buried under all this heap of Rules and yet more Rules.

* * *

And so there we are, All Rules and No Boy! And No Game!

* * *

Is there no remedy? Oh yes, there certainly is. The Augean stables will have to be swept clean, thoroughly clean. We should all prescribe a course of Pelmanism for ourselves so that whatever else we forget we do not forget the Boy, or forget that scouting has no other mission than serving the Boy! We should at least once in a way be able to recollect that there is such a thing as the Scoutmaster, whom the Founder looked upon as the key Man. There will not be much harm done if we also regard him in the same manner. We have to look upon him as an ally. We should not steal the show from him. We have to train him for his work in the Troop or the Pack. "Certificate Fees" is a fairly good source of miscellaneous income, but our object in training the scouter should not merely be for the purpose of enabling him to earn what is very appropriately called Craft Allowance, serving as it does folk who are crafty enough to try to get something out of scouting without the least attempt or desire to put anything into it, without so much as a stray thought for the Boy.

* * *

We should make sure that every man trained by us is the centre round which an active scout troop gets organised and is kept functioning as it ought to be.

* * *

And in the big folk who are running the organisation, there should be a change of heart. First, they should be willing to regard the Boy as the one for whom the movement exists. They should constantly worry themselves how best they can serve him. They should be willing to work very hard in whatever capacity they find themselves. No one should rest on his oars. Every one should pull his weight, and be ready to pull even more than his weight. No one should be clinging on just for the fun of clinging on. When any one finds himself unable to spare the time or exert himself sufficiently well he should be willing to step down. All the time one should be looking about to see if there is some one else who can do his job better and more effectively than himself, and should he observe any one competent he should be willing to provide that other the chance and do all he can to bring him into the movement. It is thus that those who love scouting can help.

* * *

The glamour for school troops should go. Much harm has been done by relying too much on school units. The root cause is the craze for numbers. It is quite easy to start troops in schools. Boys are there and they can easily be pulled into the movement. Troops could be made to order. Made to order troops do not last. Troops which are on their own, open troops as they are known, are known to be hardy perennials. School units require the D. E. O.'s visitation to give them life. And the life so given lasts just as long as that visitation lasts. Annually once the unit will be found active. And even then it will be active on the particular things that they want to stage for the benefit of the official who visits.

Of course there are exceptions. Searchlight knows of several good troops which are or which used to be run on sound lines, even though they are or were school units. That happens when the unit has a selfless man to run it as Scoutmaster. That happens when that man does really love the Boy. That happens when that man does his scouting for its own sake, not because the H. M. wants it, because there is pressure from somewhere. The only pressure that he will yield to is the pressure from the boys. What interests them will be his concern. He will not grudge giving the boys all his time. He will not hesitate to sacrifice his holidays, short or long, if he can during them play the game of scouting with his boys. Such people are rare. But the type is not extinct. You may find them yet in schools. You may find them scout-mad even in schools where there is no pressure from the top. The H. M. may not be keen about scouting, but you may see the scouter is keen, and as keen as a razor's edge.

Scouting as an organisation should at least from now on think of open units all the time. A good troop gives birth to many good aerial roots. They will strike the ground and grow into stems. The boys who come out of an open group are these aerial roots, and you can count on their becoming secondary stems. You can count on their being a source of strength, and you can count on their enabling the Banyan Tree to expand and extend its sphere of usefulness.

* * *

If we who run the organisation can turn the searchlight inwards, search our minds and find out honestly what we are after, and if we can make up our mind to do our duty by ourselves and by the Boy whom we are supposed to serve, we can yet hope to see scouting grow into a stalwart Banyan Tree with plenty of secondary stems, rich in foliage, and serving the community in the way it should. But let ours be not just a New Year Resolution. Let it go deep. Let us think and act as we really ought to.

—SEARCHLIGHT

Note:—Boy includes Girl. Troop includes Pack, Troop, Crew, Flock, Company and Team. Scouter refers exclusively to those who do work in and for those Units. Scoutmaster includes Captain.

TRAINING COURSES—FOR SCOUTERS

District Associations and Commissioners are requested to plan their training courses for the summer holidays and inform the Headquarters Commissioner for Training (Scouts) at the State Headquarters of the details before the end of March 1960 so that he may make the necessary arrangements for the deputation of Officers for Training.

SRI. J. I. MUTHIAH

Camp Chief (Scouts) India, at Madras

Sri. J. I. Muthiah, Camp Chief (Scouts) India, who was on leave spending his time with his family at Madras, was good enough to devote some of his time for meeting the Scouters in Madras City.

On 26th December 1959, there was a rousing reception given to him by the Scouters of Chingelput District at a Tea Party arranged in his honour at the District Board Office Buildings, Saidapet. Sri V. Subramaniam, P. A to the Special Officer District Board, presided over the function.. Chingelput District was the earliest to be benefited by the work of Sri. J. I. Muthiah, who in the early days was appointed by the District Board to develop Scouting in the Villages in the district and whose work had received the fine approbation of the then Camp Chief Mr. J. S. Wilson, as described in the book "Girlcraft Gleanings".

On 27th December, Sri. J. I. Muthiah was entertained at Tea at the State Headquarters of the Bharat Scouts and Guides, when the Honorary State Secretary welcomed him on behalf of the officers of the State Headquarters. There was a large gathering of Scouters who have gone through the Himalaya Wood Badge Training when problems relating the Training of Scouts and Scouters were discussed. The Camp Chief cleared many of the doubts raised by the Scouters.

Sri. J. I. Muthiah was the Chief Guest of honour at a dinner given by the Commissioners, Secretaries and Scouters of the various Districts in Madras City at the "Woodlands" Royapettah. Glorious tributes were paid to Sri. J. I. Muthiah for his work in the cause of the movement both in the State and at the National level. Sri. J. I. Muthiah in his reply impressed on the need for all the workers in the Movement sticking to the Scout Promise and Law in their every day life, if Scouting is to forge ahead in the years to come.

On the 29th December 1959, Sri. J. I. Muthiah, inaugurated the Central Camp for Scouts of the East Madras District on the estates of the Raj Bhavan, Guindy.

TRAINING NOTES

Some doubts cleared

1. Cub Salute: Two fingers of the Cub Salute denote only the two items of our Cub Law, i.e., (i) the Cub gives in to the elders, (ii) the Cub is clean and courteous.

2. Whistles: Whistles should not be used in the Pack work. If at all they are to be used they may be used only during games.

3. Jungle Names: Jungle names selected from the Jungle Book by Rudyard Kipling or from the Indian epics and Jungle tales like Panchathantra have to be used. The selection of the names is left to the discretion of the Cubmaster.

4. Naming of Sixes (Rule 409—A.P.R.O.): Sixes in a Cub Pack should be named after colours, such as, Red, Blue, Green, Yellow, Black, White etc., etc.

5. Salutes: Cubmasters salute other Scouters and Cubmasters with three fingers but they salute Cubs with two fingers. All Scout Officers salute Cubs with two fingers.

6. Membership Badge for Scouters (Rule 295—A.P.R.O.): Scouters of all ranks including Group Scouters such as, Group Leaders (Scouts) Cubmasters, Scoutmasters and Rover Scout Leaders wear the membership badge (Green Tenderfoot Cloth) on the centre of the left pocket on their uniforms. The Badges should be stitched on the uniform and not pinned.

7. Naming of Scout Patrols: Patrols should be named after birds and animals as given below. It is best that the names of animals and birds which can be seen and observed by the Scouts in their respective localities are given to the patrols in such localities. Colours for shoulder knots are mentioned against each animal or bird.

The SHOULDER KNOT shall consist of 4 stripes each 6 inches long and $\frac{1}{2}$ inch to $\frac{3}{4}$ inch broad; all the four stripes may be of one colour or two stripes of one colour and two of another. They must be made of woollen braid.
